We Bring our Gifts Our Local Church Budget

When Joseph Leek died, he left nearly $1.8 million to an organization that provided guide dogs for the blind. Nothing unusual there. Except that nobody, not even his own family, had any idea that he had that kind of money. The 90-year-old lived like a pauper, according to his daughters. He watched television at a neighbor's house to save on electricity, put off home repairs, and bought secondhand clothes. Joseph's problem was not the lack of money; he was driven to save money to help others.

Likewise, the lack of funds isn't the real issue in the church, but a lack of understanding in the purpose of giving and why God installed this as part of the redemptive restoration process. When we don't participate in giving, it weakens our spirituality and the spirit of generosity.

By giving regularly, we nurture a generous spirit which aligns more with Christ's character. Giving offerings shouldn't be motivated by earthly rewards, but by sharing in Christ's eternal glory. Now this is priceless!

The right understanding of giving should propel us to give more for His glory. That's why our donations to the church should not be driven by emotional appeals and feelings, but by our love and deep commitment to Christ and the people He gave His life for. Today, let's ask the Holy Spirit to help us give so we can reflect Christ's unselfishness. Our offering for today is for the local church budget. Let's pray...

Next week's offering is for

NOURISHMENT FOR THE SOUL

"As religious aggression subverts the liberties of our nation, those who would stand for freedom of conscience will be placed in unfavorable positions. For their own sake they should, while they have opportunity, become intelligent in regard to disease, its causes, prevention, and cure. And those who do this will find a field of labor anywhere. There will be suffering ones, plenty of them, who will need help, not only among those of our own faith but largely among those who know not the truth." Councils on Health 506 (1892)

"I wish to tell you that soon there will be no work done in ministerial lines but medical missionary work." Councils on Health 533 (1901)
